

7

From: Dan Gerlach <dgerlach@goldenleaf.org>
Sent: Monday, September 23, 2013 11:11 AM
To: gnichol
Subject: Re: Nov. 25 -- Poverty Center Conference

I figured as much. Thanks so much for thinking of me

Sent from my iPhone

On Sep 23, 2013, at 10:02 AM, "gnichol" <gnichol@email.unc.edu> wrote:

Thanks much. I get your political point. And this is meant to be just what your last sentence suggests. But we'll talk before I send things out to make sure you're Ok with it.

I look forward to seeing you.

Gene

From: Dan Gerlach [dgerlach@goldenleaf.org]
Sent: Monday, September 23, 2013 8:50 AM
To: gnichol
Subject: RE: Nov. 25 -- Poverty Center Conference

Gene,

It is good to hear from you. I am placing it on my calendar to attend.

I would be cautious about attending given my Board makeup if this turns into a political fight against the current regime. I think it is very constructive to figure out - for all of us - how do we speak truth to power and work within the environment and with the leaders we have.

Dan

From: gnichol [gnichol@email.unc.edu]
Sent: Monday, September 23, 2013 8:48 AM
To: Dan Gerlach
Subject: Nov. 25 -- Poverty Center Conference

Dan, I'm hoping you'll mark your calendar and agree to come to this conference [below]. I'll send further info, but we've got great people joining us for (sorta) small group discussion. Two of the four panels will focus on the much altered community economic landscape in NC -- one on the organizations and one on the NC foundations' response. So we need you to speak. There'll be about 55 invited attendees. Leslie Winner, Anita Brown-